HARDING FOR UNION OF BIG RAIL SYSTEMS

President in Address at Kansas City Approves Interstate Commerce Plan

AVOID U. S. OWNERSHIP

President Says That Some Action Must be Taken to Avoid "Costly Blunder"

Kansas City, Mo., June 23.—Consolidation of the railroads of the country into a small number of systems is a rational, justifiable step, full of promise towards solution of the transportation problem, President Harding declared here last night in the second prepared address of his western trip.

"If the system consolidations will not afford the solution," he said, "then our failure will enforce a costlier experiment and the one great commitment which I hope the United States will forever escape."

The executive expressed the belief that this one great commitment—government operation—would be "a colossal blunder, which would destroy initiative, infect us with political corruption, create regional jealousies and impose incalculable cost on the public treasury."

Railroad Labor Board.
Discussing relations between carriers and their employees as a vital factor in the transportation situation, the President announced that he favored continuance of the Railroad Labor Board "under such modifications as seem most likely to make the plan successful." He said he was not convinced that the test of this plan had been "a complete and entirely fair one," but added that "there is little to hope for until all concerned are ready to comply promptly with the board's decisions."

"I do not hope for compliance on the part of employees so long as decisions are ignored by the managers," he said.

The sort of consolidation of the carriers which Mr. Harding advocated contemplates a constitution of the larger systems so that the weaker and unprofitable lines would be able to lean upon the financial strength of the stronger and profitable ones until the growth of the country makes them all earn a just return upon the capital invested. The whole would be under "rigorous government supervision."

Such a consolidation, the President asserted, would "offset a diminution in rates without making a net return impossible" and at the same time "make sound finance possible for expansion."

"There now appears to be no difficulty about any constitutional inhibition to the voluntary consolidation," he authorized by Congress, "the executive continued, "But the problem of reconciling the interests of the hundreds of different ownerships and managements of lines to be merged into systems has proven a task for which no solution has been found."

Expects Legislation.
"It is, therefore, being seriously proposed that the next step be to further amplify the provisions for consolidation so as to stimulate the consummation. It is my expectation that legislation to this end will be brought before Congress at the next session."

"There are some roads—many of the smaller ones in fact—whose continued operation is absolutely vital to many thousands of people, to considerable towns, to large areas of country, whose revenues simply cannot provide financial facilities through earning, pending a considerable growth in community population, say nothing of earning any return whatever on capital invested. No legard of court processes, receivers' certificates or financial juggling, can save them. They must get more revenue or stronger support or quit operating until the country is more largely developed."

FIND BANKS' DEPOSITORY BONDS HOLD

Present Bonds Continue Under New Law State Officials Rule

Bonds of depository banks given under the present law may be continued in force, under conditions, when the new depository act takes effect July 1, according to opinions of Attorney-General George F. Shafer and Tax Commissioner C. C. Converse.

Auditor C. W. Nelson of Barnes county, stating that the 1921 depository law provided for continuing bonds of four years, asked whether bankers are required to furnish new bonds.

"It was the intention of the legislature in enacting chapter 1042, as session laws of 1923," says the Attorney-General's opinion, "that it should not be necessary for the county commissioners to require new bonds of all depositories, if at the time of being designated as such in conformity to said chapter the bank so designated did have with the proper official a continuing bond as provided in said chapter 58, session laws of 1921, it being the plain duty of the board to examine all outstanding bonds, and to require new bonds whenever necessary in order to comply with the new law. In other words, it will only amount to a re-designation under the old bond, care being taken to see that the old bond is a continuing one."

Tax Commissioner Converse points out that the new depository law requires that every bank in the county be notified on July 1 by the clerk, which includes the auditor of a public corporation depositing money, and that at the next meeting of the board a depository be designated. In the event there should be no proposals from banks, Mr. Converse says: "My conclusion is that it would then be proper for the board to designate as a depository the bank which now has the funds in its custody provided the bond of such bank already on file conforms to the provisions of the act."

The new depository act requires the board to be approved by the state attorney as to form and by the board as to sufficiency. Mr. Converse suggests it would be well to have the board again approve the amount of a continuing bond and the sufficiency, as well as having the state attorney approve the form.

Under the new law interest paid on public money shall be not less than 2 percent nor over 3 percent on call deposits and not less than 4 nor more than 6 percent on time deposits.

FORD OWNERS TUNING UP CARS FOR BIG DAY IN BISMARCK NEXT WEEK

New Prize Is Announced Today to be in List Offered to "Ford Family"—Bismarck Makes Plans to Take Care of Visitors Coming For The Big Event

The "Ford family" which gathers in Bismarck next Wednesday, June 27, is going to be seen far and wide. Festures will be taken of the big gathering, which is to be staged on der the auspices of the Copelin Motor Company, and they probably will go all over the country in the Ford magazine and other publications.

It is to be a big day.

Even after the outline of prizes was made and the arrangement by the Bismarck Retail Merchants and the Copelin Motor Company to give away a brand new Ford touring car to the holder of a lucky number, a lot of other interesting sidelights and stunts were being developed today. Some of them are now secret, but are expected to provide a lot of fun for the "Ford family."

Then genial Old Lady Bismarck expects a big job in entertaining all the Ford owners and their families expected in here for the festive occasion, but there won't be any dull time, the visitors are promised.

With band music, novel stunts and beautifully decorated cars—not to mention a picnic to give everybody a chance to get acquainted and swap stories—the Ford Day in Bismarck is counted to be the most complete Ford Day entertainment held in the Northwest.

Scores of Ford owners already are looking forward to the big prize of the day, the drawing of the Ford touring car to be given away free to the holder of the lucky number. The numbers are going into a sealed ballot box, under padlock and key, and then at 5:30 in the afternoon on June 27 the lucky number is to be drawn, and some one is going to be the proud owner of a new car.

This feature, it already has been announced, is arranged by the Copelin Motor Company.

PRESIDENT, IN KANSAS, GOES BACK TO FARM

Drives Binder in Wheat Fields and Shows He Knows How To Do It

Hutchinson, June 23.—Before arriving in Hutchinson, President Harding's train traveled for miles through Kansas wheat fields and upon arrival he, with Mrs. Harding and other members of the party were taken for a ride in the country where the wheat harvest is in progress.

He drove a binder, shocked up some of the grain in both the Kansas and Ohio ways and obtained first hand information as to the problems of the wheat farmers of the middle west.

The President demonstrated that he had not forgotten his farmer boy days in Ohio as he climbed down from the tractor which drew the 10-foot binder, Governor James A. Davis of Kansas exclaimed: "You are some farmer, Mr. President," and several of the farm hands called out, "You are all right, chief."

G. R. Lowe, engaged by the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World to explain the "Neosho plan" of which he is the originator, will address a noon luncheon of the Association of Commerce sometime in July.

Mr. Lowe's plan, it was explained, is getting the farmer and city man together, building a better understanding, improving relations, increasing a city's functions. His plan attracted nation-wide attention.

A request from Julius H. Barnes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, that the local A. O. F. C. join in a nation-wide effort for better utilization of the transportation system through closer cooperation between shipper and railroad, has been placed in the hands of the A. O. F. FREIGHT RATES BIG FACTOR IN N. D. PROGRESS

Governor Believes Problem Is Important in Dealing with Farm Situation

HOPE IN COOPERATION

Every Member of Such Organization Must Give It Close Study, He Declares

Belief that lower freight rates constitute an important factor in the improvement of agricultural conditions in the Northwest was expressed by Governor R. A. Nestos on his return here from the National Wheat Conference held in Chicago.

With a long haul and bulky products raised, North Dakota and other Northwestern states are in need of freight rates that will give a lower rate to the farmer, the Governor said, adding this is true especially in view of the rates in the Dominion of Canada to the seaboard being much lower. The ultimate completion of the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterways is an important factor in the future, the Governor added.

The Chicago conference, he said, was successful as a conference, there being 550 delegates from 36 different states, including representatives of all great farmers' organizations of the country and farmers themselves, as well as representatives of milling, banking, meat packing and farm implement industries.

Deals With Future.
The conference, he said, was called to deal with the economic solution of problems confronting the wheat raisers, and working out a program for years to come rather than to deal with legislative remedies, since the conference last winter at St. Paul took steps to urge legislative action. A committee was named at that conference, he said, to induce Congress to pass the Gooding price-minimum on wheat bill.

"It was the feeling at the Chicago conference that everything that could be done to create greater markets for products should be done, and while a committee was at work inducing Congress to pass a price-fixing measure, action should be taken toward developing a sound and safe agricultural program to insure better markets and more stabilized prices."

Price-Fixing Plan.
"The reason the conference declined to also adopt a price-fixing resolution was that many felt this had been taken care of in the St. Paul conference and the Chicago conference should be devoted to economic measures tending to limit production and increase consumption and by co-operation of wheat raisers to secure better price conditions."

The Governor said that after going through the conference he felt personally confident that the chief hope for the future lies in such organizations as the farm bureau, national wheat growers organization, and added "I hope the farmers in increasing numbers will join in the building of these organizations and will have the constant co-operation of business and professional men."

Must Take Interest.
"While our experience in the past shows frequently the difficulty in finding the best kind of men to take active charge of the work of these organizations, there is a positive need of them and no one should be deterred from joining, and with the co-operation by members the highest type of leadership can be retained and secured if not already actively engaged."

The Governor said that in the past there has been too much of a disposition when a co-operative organization was formed to rely on the mere fact that co-operation was an open sesame to success, but added that there can be no hope for success in any co-operative organization until the membership takes as keen interest as they would in their private business, and apply the same sound principles of business organization.

Dairy Special At Mandan Monday

U. S. SEIZURE OF LIQUOR IN N. Y. IS HALTED

No Explanation Is Given For Interruption, But Seizure Is Resumed

ANOTHER SAILS

Steamship Sets Sail From England for United States Bearing Sealed Liquor

Washington, June 23.—New and drastic instructions designed, it was said, to hasten seizure of beverage liquors aboard the incoming foreign ships, were sent today by Assistant Secretary Moss of the Treasury Department to customs and prohibition officers in New York.

The new orders were made necessary, it was officially stated, by the action of Dr. E. K. Sprague, public health officer in New York, in granting a request of the medical officer of the British liner Berengaria to retain its entire supply of liquors as "medicinal."

New York, June 23.—Uncle Sam, after starting to seize Johnny Bull's liquor on the steamship Baltic, halted, scratched his head and later resumed his raid on the steamship lockers stocked with liquor under British government seal, intended for use on the homeward trip.

Secretary Mellon who promulgated the dry ruling which the Baltic, Berengaria and Paris have defied showed officials at Washington protested ignorance of the reasons for the pause, and officials at the customs house, locked in conference could not be reached. At the offices of the White Star line it was stated that no injunction proceedings had been instituted.

At the prohibition unit officials likewise disclaimed all knowledge for the reason for interrupting the seizures. It was learned, however, that Commissioner Haynes who also is in New York had been in communication with prohibition legal advisers here by telephone. No one would reveal the subject of the conversation.

It was said later that the authorities had delayed, through courtesy for Dr. E. K. Sprague, local head of the United States Public Health Service, who had issued a permit for retention of some liquor for medicinal supplies. When he failed to appear raiders resumed their work.

Removal of the seized liquor from the Baltic began shortly before 2 o'clock. The authorities induced longshoremen to lift it with a crane from the hold and it was loaded on trucks bound for a government warehouse. Only a few dozen cases had been removed, however, when the work was stopped on telephonic instructions from Dr. Sprague.

ANOTHER SAILS

Southampton, England, June 23.—The steamship Ohio of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. sailed for New York today with a sealed supply of liquor for her return trip. The Aquitania sailing tomorrow will be similarly stocked.

DENIES STATEMENT

London, June 23.—An official statement issued this afternoon read: "There is no foundation whatever for certain remarks attributed to Mr. Baldwin (the prime minister), in the press to the effect 'now that the Irish question and the debt are out of the way prohibition seems to be the only thing likely to disturb Anglo-American friendship.'"

HALT A SURPRISE

Washington, June 23.—The sudden halt in seizure of the Baltic supply of liquor was a surprise to treasury officials in Washington who immediately took steps to ascertain the cause.

Assistant Secretary Moss, who is acting head of the department in the absence of Secretary Mellon, said no order countermanning yesterday's instructions to seize the liquor had gone forward from the capital.

THREE KNOWN SERIOUSLY HURT. DAMAGE AT LEAST $200,000 IN STORM IN WESTERN N. D.

CITY ESCAPES HEAVY LOSSES IN BIG WIND

Telephone Communication Is Disrupted in Many Places Because of Blow

FERRIFIC VELOCITY

Bismarck escaped the brunt of the terrific wind storm which did serious damage last night west of the Missouri river. The weather bureau's report here showed the highest wind velocity was 40 miles an hour, while some estimates placed the blow west of the river at 80 to 90 miles an hour.

The storm cut across a patch of woods on this side of the Missouri river south of here, according to Michael O'Connor, and blew limbs six inches thick off big cottonwood trees along the river. Many limbs were blown off trees at the capitol grounds and in various parts of the city.

The highest temperature yesterday was 87 here, and was one of the hottest days of the season.

A few telephone circuits were damaged in Bismarck. The North Dakota Independent Telephone company reported service crippled from Steele east, bad wires at Flasher, and west of Glen Ullin 16 telegraph poles were blown down. Trouble also was reported north of Coleharbor.

The high power electric line from Underwood to Max was badly damaged. There also was telephone trouble north of Mandan. The Soo line reported some poles down north of Underwood, and one report to that company said that across the river from Washburn the wind uprooted big trees while it did not do much damage on the east side of the river.

Reports from Fargo stated that wire communication from Minnesota was badly crippled because of storm here, and that this morning Fargo was cut off from Minot.

HEAVY RAIN NORTH

Minot, June 23.—Rain which began falling in Minot late yesterday afternoon has totalled 1.10 inches.

WINDOWS BROKEN

Fargo, June 23.—Several plate glass windows were blown in during a wind storm in Moorhead last night.

THE WEATHER

For Bismarck and vicinity: Partly overcast tonight and Sunday. For North Dakota: Partly overcast tonight and Sunday. Not quite so warm east of port. Tonight.

General Weather Conditions.
Low pressure centered over North Dakota has been accompanied by showers and thunder storms in Minnesota, the Dakotas and at scattered places to the north Pacific coast. Some high winds were reported in central North Dakota and the shower were heaviest in northern and western sections of the State. Temperatures are still high from the Mississippi Valley eastward, but cool weather prevails from the Dakotas westward and southward.

U. S. S. LEVIATHAN ON TRIAL TRIP BREAKS ALL OCEAN SPEED RECORDS

New York, June 23.—A wireless message from Albert D. Lasker, former president of the shipping board, to President Harding announcing that the steamship Leviathan had broken all world records for sustained speed was forwarded by the shipping board today.

In addition to making 23.4 knots in one hour the steamship sustained 28 knots for six hours, the message said. During a 26-hour period she covered 68 nautical miles, the average speed being 27.48 knots. The distance run was declared to be 11 miles further than the fastest record made by a merchant marine ship.

Starting in Sioux County Terrible Wind Carries Farm Buildings in Its Path

SWINGS OVER RIVER

Reaches Into Northern Burleigh and Southern McLean Counties, Reports Say

At least three farm homes were destroyed, scores of barns, granaries and other farm buildings wrecked and two persons seriously injured in cyclonic storm last evening which came on the heels of one of the hottest days of the season when the mercury reached almost 90 degrees.

The area was affected, embracing most of Grant and Morton counties, and striking across the Missouri to northern Burleigh and southern McLean counties.

Woman Injured.
Mrs. Ed. Glittel, north of New Salem, hurrying to get into her house, was struck by heavy timber, sustaining a broken arm, broken nose and loss of an eye.

North of Lark in Grant county the farm homes of William Peterson and Louis Tibbets were completely destroyed. Families at both places took refuge in the cellars and all escaped injuries except a 12-year-old son of Louis Tibbets, who was hit by flying timbers and badly injured. He was taken to Flasher unconscious.

South of Raleigh, according to messenger reports received by messengers to Mandan, not a farm but loss of some buildings, barns, granaries and houses. Telephone wires are down in that vicinity and many details could not be secured.

The storm was apparently 50 to 60 miles wide, came up out of South Dakota and swept across eastern Sioux, Grant and Morton dodged around the city of Mandan and crossed the Missouri river, struck north across the northern part of Burleigh county and southern McLean.

Granary Crashed.
Near Carson a granary was crashed into the William Owen farm home, practically demolishing it.

The storm was not a twister but a terrific blow. Starting at 6:30 the wind steadily increased in velocity, reaching a speed estimated at 80 to 90 miles an hour.

Messenger reports received at Mandan from points which could be reached by telephone told of destroyed barns and granaries wrecked.

A particularly heavy loss is reported to the territory 20 miles south of New Salem and Flasher.

The loss, it was estimated, might include wrecking of 50 farms or other damage, amounting to over $200,000.

Girl Injured.
Odella Fried, 16, daughter of J. C. Fried, farmer 12 miles north of Mandan, was brought to a city today in a critical condition suffering from internal injuries sustained when she was crushed beneath a small building which was picked up and thrown upon her while she was hurrying to shelter.

Conservative estimates in Mandan on noon placed the damage at over $200,000.

Farmers coming into Mandan told of at least two big barns blown down 15 to 20 miles southwest of the city, and scores of small buildings wrecked.

The city of Mandan escaped any damage, although a barn just west of the city was blown down and a string of box cars on a siding three miles west of the city was sent down the track at a 25-mile-an-hour gait and halted by a switch-crow which hooked on to the cars. Wires were down at Harmon and Price, and indications were that territory suffered greatly.

Damage at Wilton.
Damage amounting to several thousand dollars was done to Washburn Lignite Coal Company property at Wilton, by the at which reached there about 8 o'clock last night. G. W. Stev of Wilton said over the telephone today that there seemed to be a storm, slight, hard winds, one from the Northwest and one from the southeast, which met about Wilton.

Barns of several farmers living east of Wilton were leveled to the ground. It is expected barns in a wide area were damaged. No reports of injuries were received.

The wind stripped the roof of the office building of the Washburn Lignite Coal Company at the time, taking it entirely off and some of the company were in vaults, and escaped damage.

The wind raised one corner of the power house four inches. It also blew down a windmill of the company at Langhorne, a company town. (Continued on Page 3)

ASKS FARMERS TO TAKE OVER BIG GRAIN CO.
Bernard Baruch Advocates Plan for United States Grain Growers

New York, June 22.—A plan whereby the United States Grain Growers, an organization of farmers engaged in co-operative marketing, can obtain control and ultimate production of the Armour Grain Co. with its entire organization and present executive personnel has been suggested by Bernard Baruch and now is being considered by J. Ogden Armour, head of the company, and its president, George Markey.

Premature publication of this idea led Mr. Baruch last night to issue a statement making it clear that his program has only been suggested by him as a private individual without authority and it is still in that stage. He made public a letter he wrote to "an agricultural senator" outlining his views.

Regarding his plan for financing the deal Mr. Baruch wrote:

"Enough farmers would be asked to subscribe an amount sufficient to make a large payment, the balance to be out of the cost of handling the grain. The farmers would receive a certificate of interest for their original subscription and for profits made out of the grain until profits have been paid out of profits."

HOPE DAWNS IN ITALY AS FURY RECEDES
Damage From Volcano Is Now Estimated at Hundred Million Lire

Catania, Italy, June 22.—For the first time since Mount Etna became violent a ray of hope dawned this morning for the much tried inhabitants of the volcanic region. The danger is not yet ended for the crater of the mountain still is belching forth streams of lava and great rocks which threatened the complete destruction of nearby communities but undoubtedly the violence of the eruption is decreasing.

A relatively small number of craters—about 20 in number—opened during the night indicating that the pressure in the mountain is less.

Volcanologists say it is impossible to prophesy how long Etna will continue active but they expect a return to more normal conditions within a short time. Although the loss in property has been enormous the eruption of Sicily's great mountain terror has claimed no human lives. The physical injuries have been extremely rare.

Latest estimates placed the damage at more than 100 million lire, exclusive of the injury to crops caused by the showers of ashes and cinders. This destruction extends over a vast area.

Richholt Defeats William Moore at Indoor Baseball
The Richholt baseball squad defeated the William Moore team in a game of indoor baseball at Richholt school last night, 14 to 5. M. D. Avery refereed the game.

Tonight William Moore plays Wachter, at Wachter school.

If the interest in volleyball and indoor baseball continues as at present, tournaments will be held. There will also be tournaments for the girls. Much enthusiasm is being displayed by the crowd of boys and girls on the playground.

The boys are showing a much better attendance than the girls, Mrs. King reports. She urges that girls from the ages of eight to fourteen, particularly, come out and take part in the fun, although girls of all ages, and boys of all ages are cordially invited to join in the sport.

AT THE MOVIES
THE ELTINGE
The cast for the Paramount production of "The Glimpses of the Moon," which comes to the Eltinge Theatre today and tomorrow, Friday and Saturday is of all-star proportions. In addition to Bebe Daniels and Nita Naldi, who have the featured parts, an important role was assigned to Rubye de Remer, who has been starred in several productions. The new members of the cast include Maurice Costello, who was Vitagraph's leading male star for years, and Charles Clary, who is known as the most interesting "wild man" on the screen. David Powell is leading man. The story is from Edith Wharton's Pictorial Review novel.

CAPITOL
With John Gilbert in the star role, "Honor First," his latest William Fox feature, will open at the Capitol Theatre tonight. Press reports from other cities where this picture has been shown accord it high praise. Many who have reviewed the feature assert that Gilbert is at his best.

The story deals with the difference in character and temperament between two brothers, both of whom served in the French Army during the war. Gilbert portrays both brothers. His work as the cowardly brother is said to be especially worth while. This characterization calls for extraordinary force in acting.

Not only is the story of the picture intensely gripping and worth while, but the photograph and direction are declared to be of the best. Jerome Storm, who is fast becoming one of the foremost directors.

BALL SAYS HE WAS CHEATED
Indigestion Deprived Him of Many Meals, He States, But It's All Over Now

"If I knew Tanlac wasn't going to be sold any more, I would buy every bottle I could, for I wouldn't be without it," declared James Ball, well known advertising distributor, of Jackson Boulevard and Morgan St., Chicago, while on a trip to Gary, Ind., recently.

"I was cheated out of many a meal by a terrible case of stomach trouble and was badly run-down. After eating I suffered awful pains and bloated with gas till I felt like I would smother. I had rheumatism, too, and the pains were so fearful I could hardly raise my arms. I was so nervous any rush job set my hands trembling and my head to aching.

"But a ten-pound gain and a ravenous appetite tell what Tanlac did for me. The rheumatism is gone, my nerves are steady and I can carry a load of advertising all day and seldom get tired. I wish I could post 'Take Tanlac' everywhere. If people would heed this they would avoid a world of suffering."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold.

EFFECT OF PROHIBITION IN N. D. GOOD

Effect of prohibition of North Dakota generally has been good, in the opinion of Attorney-General George F. Shafer. Replying to a request from the World League against Alcoholism, 69 Fleet street, London, England, Mr. Shafer said:

"I beg to advise you that this state has had constitutional prohibition since 1909, a period of more than 13 years, and I believe that it is the nearly universal opinion that the effect of prohibition generally has been good; that it has a good effect upon law and order, has considerably reduced drunkenness and crime, and has generally improved the morals of the people."

ONE IS SHOT DEAD IN POSSE SEEKING LIFER
Escaped Prisoner Is Believed Crazed in Northern Michigan Swamps

Escanaba, Mich., June 22.—One deputy has been shot dead, a state trooper has been wounded and George Natchoff, Marquette prison lifer, who escaped a week ago still is at large, defying the efforts of a posse 200 strong to capture him.

Armed with a revolver and plentifully supplied with ammunition Natchoff has been surrounded in a desolate swamp near here for 30 hours. Several attacks by members of the posse have been met by a well directed fire from a dense thicket in which Natchoff was concealed.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Curran was killed Wednesday by a bullet from Natchoff's revolver. Yesterday Charles Flegborn of the state police, was shot through the abdomen, escaping death because a heavy belt buckled diverted the course of the bullet.

Authorities directing the man hunt believe that Natchoff has become crazed by the heat and the ravages of insects in the swamp. Blood-spattered saplings, they say, indicated that he had been wounded.

Geo. Plouches, who escaped with Natchoff, was captured Wednesday.

ENTERTAINMENT

The entertainment features for the 1923 convention are so varied that it will not be difficult for any member to find something to do during the entertainment periods.

Wednesday afternoon, June 27th, in addition to golf and tennis contests, a drive to Mandan across the new million dollar bridge has been arranged by the Bismarck Association of Commerce to start at three o'clock sharp. Returning to Bismarck all members will be driven to the Bismarck Country Club for a picnic supper and a horseshoe pitching contest. Later in the evening, members will be entertained at the Eltinge Theater by a moving picture entertainment which will include Pola Negri in "Bella Donna." There will also be dancing and entertainment features on the roof of the McKenzies Hotel.

Thursday afternoon, June 28th, in addition to golf and tennis and horseshoe pitching, a ball game will be staged at the Bismarck Ball Park where a selected team of national bankers will contest the state championship with a team of state bankers. From four to six o'clock Thursday afternoon, a tea will be given by a local committee of ladies for the visiting bankers' wives and ladies at the Bismarck Country Club. Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock following a reception at the house chamber in the State Capitol at which Governor Nestos and other state officials will be in the receiving-line, the Association Annual Ball will take place.

The Bismarck Country Club extends the privilege of its golf course, tennis courts and club house to visiting bankers during the entire time of the Convention and the Bismarck Masonic Club and the City of Bismarck extends the privilege of their reading and club rooms and swimming pools to visiting bankers.

REDUCED RAILROAD RATES

Members are again cautioned to keep in mind the reduced rate of a fare and a half to delegates attending this year's Convention. PROVIDING ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY TICKETS ARE PURCHASED from starting points and the members purchasing tickets take the proper form of certificate when tickets are purchased. The certificates must be validated during the convention in order to obtain half fare rate for the trip home.

Ford Owners Tuning Up Cars For Big Day In Bismarck

Lin Motor Company with the assistance of the Bismarck retail merchants. The company greatly appreciates the cooperation of the merchants and believes the Ford family will also appreciate it. The big day will start in a cloud of dust—the dust kicked up by Ford owners in their cars coming into Bismarck from all directions. By the way the date is Wednesday, June 27—the date July 27 slipped.

in a headline in The Tribune yesterday.

The best way for every member of the Ford family to start it is to drive direct to the Copelin Motor Company's office at Broadway and Second streets and register.

Every person that registers gets a ticket in duplicate—one ticket with a number goes into the box from which the lucky number for the touring car will be drawn; the other entitles the holder to attend the free show at the Rialto theater in the afternoon.

Then comes the big parade, the best chance of all to win a good prize. It starts promptly at 11:30 a. m. The parade will form at the Copelin Motor Company garage and head west.

At the head of it will be Father Sig's St. Mary's boys band, 25 strong, clad in the neat sailor uniforms, playing snappy music.

In line will be all the Ford cars here. Twelve prizes in the parade were announced yesterday. One more was added today. The Ford one-ton truck bringing a load of farm products selling for the most money on Ford day will get this prize.

The judges will occupy a reviewing stand and get a good look at every Ford as it passes by and then judge the best decorated Ford coupe, best decorated Ford sedan, oldest Ford, best looking Ford (old style up to 1917), best looking Ford (1917 to 1923, new style), oldest driver of Ford car, car with largest number of passengers coming to town, largest family in Ford car, car bringing most cream to town, youngest married couple owning Ford car, truck coming from greatest distance.

The parade goes right up to the state capital grounds for a picnic luncheon provided by the Copelin Motor Company, right under the gaze of the statue of Sakakawea. If the bird woman who guided Lewis and Clark could look down next Wednesday she would see a strange sight—where she piloted men through the wilds of Dakota more than a half century ago she now would see the Ford family with their modern steel horses.

After the picnic there will be a free show at the Rialto theater at 2:30 p. m., with movies and talks. Three representatives of the Ford Motor Company are expected here to greet the visitors, bringing a personal message of greeting from Henry Ford.

Each tourist will be other stunts before the drawing at 5:30 p. m. Bismarck merchants generally will keep open house on next Wednesday. The Copelin Motor Company will have ladies rest rooms at the office, and the Bismarck rest room at the Masonic temple will be open in the morning as well as in the afternoon for the women and children who are to be here.

Mrs. Chris Martineson, in charge of this for the Bismarck Community Council, announced that the attendants at the room would make a special rule. The hours usually are from noon to 6 p. m., but the rest rooms will be open in the morning as well next Wednesday.

Three poles bearing electric cables of the mine company were snapped. A big force of men was busy cleaning up debris today.

Speaks In Dark
Rev. Joseph Byrson of the Episcopal Church, Bismarck, was delivering the commencement address at Wilton when the storm broke about 8:30. The snapping of the electric cables of the Washburn Lignite Coal Company, which furnishes the city with electricity, put out the lights. Some people became frightened and ran out of the hall, but Rev. Byrson finished his address in the dark. In the meantime candles and lanterns were obtained to provide meager light for the presentation of diplomas and other exercises.

It rained but 15 or 20 minutes at Wilton. Reports were received at Wilton that tops were blown off of several automobiles caught on the road. There was a heavy rain at Moffit and east last evening and also at

Premiums For Wheat At State Fair Attractive

Fargo, June 23.—North Dakota spring wheat growers will do well to consider seriously entering some of the best of their crop raised in 1922 at the Inter-State Fair held at Fargo July 9 to 14. The premium list in the agricultural department has been entirely revised, and the following premiums for wheat have never before appeared on the premium list. Especial attention is called to the fact that the Spring Wheat Crop Improvement Association, of Minneapolis, offers a chest of silver for the best pack of Marquis wheat; and that the National Macaroni Manufacturers' association offers a silver trophy cup for the best pack of amber durum offered.

In addition to these two special prizes, awardees are offered for the best hard red spring wheat and for the best durum wheat; and grand champion and reserve champion ribbons are open to all classes of wheat. The number of prizes offered for Marquis wheat and for Kibanka wheat have been raised to five.

In addition to these special and general premiums, attention is called to the fact that a very substantial first prize of $10 and a second prize of $5 is awarded for any collection of grains grown on any one farm. This collection to be considered must include a hard red spring wheat winter rye or wheat, flax, oats or barley, and any other grains such as amber, durum, red durum, emmer, buckwheat and peas.

The entertainment features for the 1923 convention are so varied that it will not be difficult for any member to find something to do during the entertainment periods.

Wednesday afternoon, June 27th, in addition to golf and tennis contests, a drive to Mandan across the new million dollar bridge has been arranged by the Bismarck Association of Commerce to start at three o'clock sharp. Returning to Bismarck all members will be driven to the Bismarck Country Club for a picnic supper and a horseshoe pitching contest. Later in the evening, members will be entertained at the Eltinge Theater by a moving picture entertainment which will include Pola Negri in "Bella Donna." There will also be dancing and entertainment features on the roof of the McKenzie Hotel.

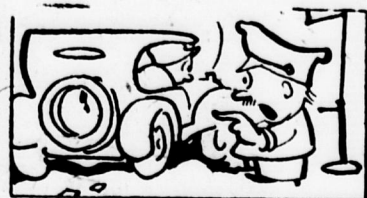

Thursday afternoon, June 28th, in addition to golf and tennis and horseshoe pitching, a ball game will be staged at the Bismarck Ball Park where a selected team of national bankers will contest the state championship with a team of state bankers. From four to six o'clock Thursday afternoon, a tea will be given by a local committee of ladies for the visiting bankers' wives and ladies at the Bismarck Country Club. Thursday evening, at 9 o'clock following a reception at the house chamber in the State Capitol at which Governor Nestos and other state officials will be in the receiving-line, the Association Annual Ball will take place.

The Bismarck Country Club extends the privileges of its golf course, tennis courts and club house to visiting bankers during the entire time of the Convention and the Bismarck Masonic Club and the City of Bismarck extends the privilege of their reading and club rooms and swimming pools to visiting bankers.

REDUCED RAILROAD RATES
Members are again cautioned to keep in mind the reduced rate of a fare and a half to delegates attending this year's Convention. PROVIDING ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY TICKETS ARE PURCHASED from starting points and the members purchasing tickets take the proper form of certificate when tickets are purchased. The certificates must be validated during the convention in order to obtain half fare rate for the trip home.

lin Motor Company with the assistance of the Bismarck retail merchants. The company greatly appreciates the cooperation of the merchants and believes the Ford family will also appreciate it.
The big day will start in a cloud of dust—the dust kicked up by Ford owners in their cars coming into Bismarck from all directions. By the way the date is Wednesday, June 27—the date July 27 slipped in a headline in The Tribune yesterday.

The best way for every member of the Ford family to start it is to drive direct to the Copelin Motor Company's office at Broadway and Second streets and register.

Every person that registers gets a ticket in duplicate—one ticket with a "number goes into the box from which the lucky number" for the touring car will be drawn; the other entitles the holder to attend the free show at the Rialto theater in the afternoon.

Then comes the big parade, the best chance of all to win a good prize. It starts promptly at 11:30 a. m. The parade will form at the Copelin Motor Company garage and head west.

At the head of it will be Father Slag's St. Mary's boys band, 25 strong, clad in the neat sailor uniforms, playing snappy music.

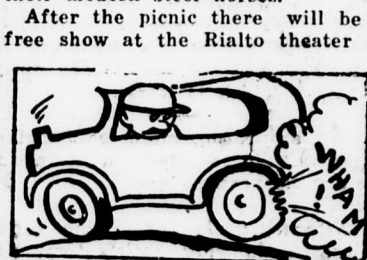

In line will be all the Ford cars here. Twelve prizes in the parade were announced yesterday. One more was added today. The Ford one-ton truck bringing a load of farm products selling for the most money on Ford day will get this prize.

The judges will occupy a reviewing stand and get a good look at every Ford as it passes by and then judge the best decorated Ford coupe, best decorated Ford sedan, oldest Ford, best looking Ford (old style up to 1917), best looking Ford (1917 to 1923, new style), oldest driver of Ford car, car with largest number of passengers coming to town, largest family in Ford car, car bringing most cream to town, youngest married couple owning Ford car, truck coming from greatest distance.

The parade goes right up to the state capital grounds for a picnic lunch provided by the Copelin Motor Company, right under the gaze of the statue of Sakakawea. If the bird woman who guided Lewis and Clark could look down next Wednesday she would see a strange sight—where she piloted men through the wilds of Dakota more than a half century ago she now would see the Ford family with their modern steel horses.
After the picnic there will be a free show at the Rialto theater at 2:30 p. m., with movies and talks. Three representatives of the Ford Motor Company are expected here to greet the visitors, bringing a personal message of greeting from Henry Ford.

men there will be other stunts before the drawing at 5:30 p. m. Bismarck merchants generally will keep open house on next Wednesday. The Copelin Motor Company will have ladies rest rooms at the offices, and the Bismarck rest room at the Masonic temple will be open in the morning as well as in the afternoon for the women and children who are to be here.
Mrs. Chris Martineson, in charge of this for the Bismarck Community Council, announced that the attendants at the room would make a special rule. The hours usually are from noon to 6 p. m. but the rest rooms will be open in the morning as well next Wednesday.

Dewey Boys Take After Grandfather

Richard and Orville Dewey, grandsons of the late Admiral Dewey, went to follow in his footsteps. Just before they sailed on a practice cruise with the District Naval Reserve of Washington, D. C., of which the are members, the boys had to mop up the deck. But they did it smiling.

and many sheds and smaller buildings.

Shingles were blown off and a bar of the coal company a mile from its tipple was moved 18 inches.

Three poles bearing electric cables of the mine company were snapped. The mine could not operate today.

A big force of men was busy cleaning up debris today.

Speaks In Dark

Rev. Joseph Ryerson of the Episcopal Church, Bismarck, was delivering the commencement address at Wilton when the storm broke about 8:30. The snapping of the electric cable of the Washburn Lignite Coal Company, which furnishes the city with electricity, put out the lights. Some people became frightened and ran out of the hall, but Rev. Ryerson finished his address in the dark. In the meantime candles and lanterns were obtained to provide meager light for the presentation of diplomas and other exercises.

It rained but 15 or 20 minutes at Wilton. Reports were received at Bismarck that tops were blown off of several automobiles caught on the road. There was a heavy rain at Moffit and east last evening and also at

Premiums For Wheat At State Fair Attractive

Fargo, June 23.—North Dakota spring wheat growers will do well to consider seriously entering some of the best of their crop raised in 1922 at the Inter-State Fair held at Fargo July 9 to 14. The premium list in the agricultural department has been entirely revised, and the following premiums for wheat have never before appeared on the premium list. Especial attention is called to the fact that the Spring Wheat Crop Improvement Association, of Minneapolis, offers a chest of silver for the best peck of Marquis wheat; and that the National Marcaroni Manufacturers' association offers a silver trophy cup for the best peck of amber durum offered.

In addition to these two special prizes, sweepstakes ribbons are offered for the best hard red spring wheat and for the best durum wheat; and grand champion and reserve champion ribbons are open to all classes of wheat. The number of prizes offered for Marquis wheat and for Kubanka wheat have been raised to five.

In addition to these special and general premiums, attention is called to the fact that a very substantial first prize of $10 and a second prize of $5 is awarded for any collection of grains grown on any one farm. This collection to be considered must include a hard red spring wheat winter rye or wheat, flax, oats or barley, and any other grains such as amber, durum, red durum, emmer, buckwheat and peas.

WELCOME KIWANIS

Organization of a Kiwanis Club in Bismarck is a step in the right direction. In every city there is the best cooperation between the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs. There will be no exception to this general rule in Bismarck. Once or twice a year there should be a joint meeting of the three clubs to coordinate their programs so that there will be no duplication of effort.

The Bismarck Rotary has sponsored the boy welfare work and cooperation with the school authorities. There are many other matters of moment for the Kiwanis and Lions clubs to father.

A juvenile and adult band under the auspices of the Association of Commerce will need the aid and earnest cooperation of all civic bodies. There is a pressing need for organized girl welfare work for twelve months in the year and the city should at an early date begin preparation upon a plan for city parks.

The ideal feature of all these clubs is the fact that they function with the Association of Commerce. In many Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs it is an unwritten law that membership in the Association of Commerce is first qualification for fellowship in the other club.

In an age where there is a tendency to over organize, the importance of a strong virile Association of Commerce which takes in every citizen should not be under estimate. The other clubs serve as a force to promote civic welfare through an indirect influence, but the organization through which the actual work is done is most effective if it happens to be the Association of Commerce.

The Kiwanis club has a place to fill in the civic life of Bismarck. It has been most auspiciously launched. The Tribune knows it voices the sentiments of other organizations in wishing this new venture the greatest success in promoting the welfare of this city and in inspiring more citizens to engage in work of a public nature.

There is little or no difference between the spirit of Rotary and that of Kiwanis. The sole object of this organization can be well summed up as follows:

The ideal of SERVICE as the basis of all worthy enterprise.

High ethical standards in business and professions. The application of the ideal of service by every Kiwanian to his personal, business and community life.

The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service.

The recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations and the dignifying by each Kiwanian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society.

The advancement of understanding, good will and international peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the Kiwanis ideal of service.

THE SENTRY

While fishing, Rodger Dolan got a sore throat which developed into tonsillitis, then painful quinsy. By this time the camping party was 28 miles from even a village. But Dolan needed a doctor, so one of the Indian guides took him the 28 miles by canoe and portage.

"The place wasn't even a village," Dolan tells the story. "It was a community of about 15 houses, no stores. I inquired my way to the doctor's house. It was a little frame dwelling. The doctor's wife—in gingham wrapper, her hands gnarled and red from helping her husband fight for existence—came to the door. She informed me that the celebrated physician was out back, chopping wood, and to just step into his office."

"The office was a surprise."

"This office," Dolan continues, "looked like business. The linoleum had a faded inlaid-tiles design. In one corner was a white enameled bookcase affair with glass shelves, in which the doctor's shining tools were displayed. On a table were the latest medical magazines."

"The doctor showed up presently. He had 'washed up' and donned a white hospital jacket. He examined me thoroughly, painted my throat ulcers, then went into his dispensing laboratory whence, after half an hour with mortar and pestle, he emerged with a pint of throat gargle and another pint of tonic."

"His charge for the whole works, examination and medicine and all, was one dollar. I protested that I didn't want to shove him any nearer the poorhouse, but he said: 'A dollar is all I can charge the local settlers, and I wouldn't feel square to ask any more of an outsider, not even Rockefeller, or Ford!'"

"I baited him with questions and learned that most of his work in his far-flung community was charity. Also that he had to chop his own firewood and farm a big garden to make both ends meet."

"It was amazing, his intuitive medical genius. I found that he was up to the minute on medical science, treating several endocrine gland cases in the backwoods and checking two cancers by radium borrowed by registered mail from a far-off city."

"Sometimes I wish I had hung out my shingle in a larger and more remunerative community," the doctor confided almost emphatically as he gazed out the window. "But I can't leave these people. They need me. Some one has to be here, to care for them when they get ill."

There is a great lesson in this backwoods doctor's life of self-sacrifice for duty. Men like this old country doctor are the foundation stones of civilization.

Duty—the purpose for which we were put into this world—is very plain to all of us. And there are more than you would think, of people like the backwoods country doctor at the outskirts of civilization—the unsung truly great.

GOODBY

Famous old Elms Hotel, tavern opened in 1771, goes out of business in Sturbridge, Mass. "Prohibition hit us," explains the genial host, John Hubbard.

So places like Delmonico's are not the only ones that are expiring with John Barleycorn. Jails, insane asylums and the poorhouses also report falling off in business.

AFTER COAL, LIGNITE

So rich is this country in natural resources that some which other great countries lack remain undeveloped and at present unneeded. Probably not one person in ten knows we have lignite, vast beds of which are found in many sections of the country, especially in the South. Texas, indeed, has lignite mines, where the fuel has been dug for commerce. Lignite, a low-grade fuel, has been mined in many other cases for home use.

Germany, though it has coal regions, has made greater use of lignite than we. It consumed some 300,000 tons last year. The fuel division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers has turned its attention to plans for the use of lignite on a similar increased scale in our country.

The price, it is estimated, would be about $5.00 a ton at the mines, and in special furnaces, where the fuel can be kept in thin layers, lignite burns efficiently. It has been tried both for domestic and industrial use and found satisfactory for both. Lignite has not been exploited to any great degree in this country, mainly because it meets the direct competition of good grades of coal, but as the supply of anthracite, which lignite resembles, and bituminous dwindles, there is certain to be great interest in this fuel. In many localities lignite occurs in vast beds only a short distance from the surface, or actually in outcroppings, so that mining is not expensive.

Perhaps by the time the necessity for the development of lignite arrives new sources of heat and power will have been developed; certainly in Europe scanty coal supplies in some regions have greatly advanced the use of "white coal," the hydro-electric power which exhausts no natural resources and has many other advantages. The possibility of man's drawing upon the lately discovered atomic energy may become a reality and solve the power problem forever—if we will accept more possibilities. Business men do not yet count on atomic energy for their future.

In the present state of human progress it is comforting to think of the huge stores of fuel awaiting the needs of future generations. Since engineers have started dividing plans for the use of lignite, we may count on having the means to handle it to advantage when the time comes.

 Actually 127,000,000 tons consumed by Germany last year. Governmental Official Reports are available to prove that Germany consumed 127,000,000 tons of lignite during 1922 and conservative Government estimates place the total tonnage mined in Germany for 1923 at 200,000,000 tons of lignite. —New York Sun and Globe.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

"All out for Circus Town!" called out Mister Punch the conductor man.

Nancy and Nick got off the Choo-Choo Express, hoping to find Ruby Joan there.

Circus Town was where the circus lived when it wasn't traveling around.

"Hello!" called a merry clown turning a somersault when he saw the Twins. "It was a nice day to-morrow, isn't it?"

The Twins laughed.

But just as the clown got settled nicely on his feet again and they were going to ask him if he had seen anything of a rag doll, a nice little black and white pony came trotting up, with a tiny monkey on his back.

"Want a ride?" asked the monkey, for in Circus Town all the animals could talk.

"Yes, indeed, thank you," said Nick.

"Then climb on, both of you," said the monkey jumping off.

So they climbed on and the little pony trotted off like a race horse.

But it was easy to ride and the Twins hadn't the least bit of trouble sticking on.

"Oh, what's that?" cried Nancy, as a big round white thing appeared directly in front of them.

"We're going to bump right into it!" "Jump!" suddenly called a voice.

Both Twins gave a leap off the pony's back, but to their surprise they found themselves back on him again right away riding along as though nothing had happened.

"We went through a paper-hoop!" laughed Nick. "We're regular circus-riders!"

After that they did so many things and had such a wonderful time that they forgot about Ruby Joan, and the train too until they heard the whistle.

"Oh, the Choo-Choo Express is going," cried Nick. "We'll have to hurry back to the station."

"I'll take you," offered an elephant and reaching down with his trunk he set them both on his back and started off at a run.

They were just in time. (To Be Continued.) (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

SOMEONE'S DUE FOR A RELAPSE

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON.

I'm inclosing some letters to me from Leslie. They are almost too sacred for even the eyes of my best friend. Only that I must scourge myself for my sins, I would not send them to you.

"Wonder, Jack, just what a man does—what his thoughts are under these circumstances."

"What would you do, Jack? On, how foolish of me to ask you! Of course you do not know what you would do. No one does unless he is put in the same position."

"What fiendish emissary of Fate told Leslie to write that to me? God! It is the last stray that pushes me down into a purgatory of my own building!"

You must see after this, Syd, I could never confess to her—never tell her—of Paula.

How sweetly she allays my fears, my jealousy of her people, and throws herself completely upon my love and care! Did ever a married sweetheart write such dear love letters?

Syd, if women only knew what scoundrels we were they would shrink from us in contempt instead of allowing us to hold them in our arms.

I think I shall go mad if you do not come soon, Syd. To tell you the truth, I do not dare go near Paula unless you are with me.

The longer I live, the surer I become of the fact that we must pay not only for our sins but for our mistakes. I think I have said that to you before, Syd, but it looks to me as though Life had asked perfection of every mortal and punished or cast aside as totally unfit those who fall short of this by either mistaken notions or voluntary sinning.

Syd, I cannot endure it. I haven't even answered these wonderful letters from Leslie of which I have sent you a copy. I am carrying the originals around with me, and I read them over and over, alternately consumed first by the burning torture of her faith in me and then by the knowledge of how unworthy I am of that faith. She is the dearest woman in all the world. Help me to keep her happy by getting me out of this mess.

Had another note from Paula today. She tells me that the doctor says she must go away immediately if she would cure incipient tuberculosis. Syd, I know what she wants. She wants to get away some place here she will not see either Leslie or me.

The poor girl hasn't a cent to bless herself with and she wants the money to go. Now I ask you how am I going to raise this money? I'm in a devil of a hole, from which I seem to be trying to pull myself out by my bootstraps.

Somehow I fear that it is not tuberculosis that ails Paula.

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Mark Brendon, famous criminal investigator, is taking holiday on Dartmoor, where fishing is his pleasure. While visiting a trout stream in Fogginton Quarry, Mark holds conversation with a man clad conspicuously in Norfolk jacket, knickerbockers and a red waistcoat with brass buttons. The stranger's hair and huge mustaches are fiery red in color.

Later Brendon receives a letter from Jenny Pendean asking him to investigate the disappearance of her husband. Mark goes to call at Jenny's home and learns that the man he met in the quarry is Robert Redmayne, uncle to Jenny, and that he is missing and suspected of murdering Michael Pendean, who also is missing. Robert Redmayne and his two brothers are Jenny's three living relatives.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"The war altered everything and created a painful breach between my future husband and my Uncle Robert. The latter instantly volunteered and rejoined in the opportunity to seek adventure."

"My husband had no mind for active warfare. He was delicately built and of a gentle temperament. Uncle Robert, however, made a personal thing of it."

"He represented the situation to his brothers, and Uncle Bendigo—who had just retired, but who, belonging to the Naval Reserve, now joined up and soon took charge of some mine sweepers—wrote very strongly as to what he thought was Michael's duty. From Italy Uncle Albert also declared his mind to the same purpose, and though I resented their attitude, the decision, of course, rested with Michael, and with me. He was only five-and-twenty then and he had no desire but to do his duty. There was nobody to advise him, and perceiving the danger of opposing my uncles' wishes, he yielded and volunteered."

"But he was refused. A doctor declared that a heart murmur made the necessary training quite impossible and I thanked God when I heard it. At my own wish Michael married me and I informed my uncles that he had done so. Relations were strained all round after that; but I did not care; and my husband only lived to please me. The Prince of Wales had been instrumental in starting a big mess depot for the preparation of surgical dressings; and both my husband and I joined this staff."

"For nearly two years we stuck to this task, lodging here with Mrs. Gerry. During that time I fell in love with Dartmoor and begged my husband to build me a bungalow up here when the war was ended, if he could afford to do so. His pilchard trade with Italy practically came to an end after the summer of 1914. But the company of Denham & Trearrow owned some good little steamers and these were soon very valuable. So Michael, who had got to care for Dartmoor as much as I did, presently took steps and succeeded in obtaining a long lease of a beautiful and sheltered spot near Fogginton quarries, a few miles from here."

"Meanwhile I had heard nothing from my uncles, though I had seen Uncle Robert's name in the paper among those who had won the D. S. O. Michael advised me to leave the question of my money until after the war, and so I did. We began our bungalow last year and came back to live with Mrs. Gerry until it should be completed."

"Six months ago I wrote to Uncle Albert in Italy and he told me that he should deliberate on the proposition; but he still much resented my marriage. I wrote to Uncle Bendigo at Dartmouth also, who was now in his new home; but while not particularly angry with me, his reply spoke slightly of my dear husband."

"A week ago I was walking out of the post-office, when who should suddenly stop in front of me on a motor bicycle but Uncle Robert? I waited only to see him dismount and set his machine on a rest before the post-office. Then I acquainted him. He was lodging at Paington, down on Torbay, for the summer months, and he hinted that he was engaged to be married."

"He had then to see an old war comrade at Two Grates, two miles from here, and meant to lunch at the Duchy Hotel and then proceed to Plymouth; but I prevailed upon him at last to come and share our midday meal, and I was able to tell him things about Michael which promised to change his unfriendly attitude. When my husband returned from the bungalow I brought them together again. Michael was on his defense instantly; but he never harbored a grievance very long and when he saw that Uncle Bob was not unfriendly and very interested to hear he had won the O. B. E. for his valuable services at the depot, Michael showed a ready inclination to forget and forgive the past."

"I think that was almost the happiest day of my life and, with my anxiety much modified, I was able to study Uncle Robert a little. He seemed unchanged, save that he talked louder and was more excitable than ever. The war had given him wide, new interests; he was a captain and intended, if he could, to stop in the army. He had escaped marvelously on many fields and seen much service. During the last few weeks before the armistice, he succumbed to gassing and was invalided; though, before that, he had also been out of action from shell shock for two months."

"He talked for hours about the war and what he had done to win his honors; and we noticed particularly a feature of his conversation. His memory failed him sometimes. "Michael explained to me afterward that this defect was a serious thing and probably indicated some brain trouble which might get worse. I begged Uncle Robert to stop with us for a few days instead of going to Plymouth. We walked over the moor in the evening to see the bungalow and my uncle was very interested."

"He stopped on and liked to lend a hand with the building sometime after the builders had gone. He and Michael often spent hours of these long evenings there together; and I would take out tea to them."

"Uncle Robert had told us about his encounter to a young woman, the sister of a comrade in the war. She was stopping at Paington with her parents and he was now going to return to her. He made us promise to come to Paington next August for the Torbay Regatta; and in secret I begged him to write to both my other uncles and explain that he was now satisfied Michael had done his bit in the war."

"Last night Uncle Robert and Michael went, after an early tea, to the bungalow, but I did not accompany them on this occasion. They ran round by road on Uncle Robert's motor bicycle, my husband sitting behind him, as he always did."

"Supper time came and neither of them appeared. I am speaking of last night now. I did not bother till midnight, but then I grew frightened. I went to the police station, saw Inspector Halfyard, and told him that my husband and uncle had not come back from Fogginton and that I was anxious about them."

"Mrs. Pendean stopped and Brendon rose. She shook his hand and a fleeting ghost of a smile, infinitely pathetic but unconscious, touched her face. At the police station a car was waiting for Mark and in twenty minutes he had reached Fogginton. Inspector Halfyard, as Brendon appeared, came forward, and shook hands."

"Have you searched the quarries?" "Come out to the bungalow and I'll tell you what there is to tell. There's been a murder all right, but we're more likely to find the murderer than his victim."

"They went on together and soon stood in the building."

"Now let's have the story from where you come in," said Brendon, and Inspector Halfyard told his tale.

"Somewhere about a quarter after midnight I was knocked up. Down I came and Constable Ford, on duty at the time, told me that Mrs. Pendean was wishing to see me."

"Her husband and her uncle, Captain Redmayne, had gone to the bungalow, as they often did after working hours, to carry on a bit; but at midnight they hadn't come home, and she was put about for 'em. Hearing of the motor bike, I thought there might have been a breakdown, if not an accident, so I told Ford to knock up another chap and go down along the road. Which they did do—and Ford came back at half past three with ugly news that they'd seen nobody, but they'd found a great pool of blood inside the bungalow—as if somebody had been sticking a pig there. 'Twas daylight by then and I motored out instantly."

"I looked round very carefully for anything in the nature of a clue, but I couldn't see so much as a button. The quarries hadn't been here because this place hasn't been open for more than a hundred years; but they go to Duke's quarry down at Merivale, and most of 'em have push bikes to take 'em to and from their job."

"At their cottages, on my way back to breakfast, I got some information of a very definite kind. Two men told the same tale and they hadn't met before they told it. One was Jim Bassett, under foreman at Duke's quarry, and one was Ringrose, the water bailiff who lives in the end cottage. Bassett and Ringrose came alone, pushing his motor bicycle till he reached the road. And behind the saddle he had a big sack fastened to the machine."

"Bassett wished him 'good night' and he returned the compliment; and half a mile down the by-road, Ringrose also passed him."

"Inspector Halfyard stopped. "Did Ringrose also report the sack behind the motor bicycle?" asked Brendon."

"He did."

CHAPTER III

Brendon followed Halfyard into the apartment destined to be the kitchen of Michael Pendean's bungalow, and the inspector lifted some tarpaulins that had been thrown up on a corner of the room. Under the tarpaulin a great red stain soaked the floor. At the edge of the central stain were smears and among them half the impress of a big, nail-studded boot."

WELCOME KIWANIS
Organization of a Kiwanis Club in Bismarck is a step in the right direction. In every city there is the best cooperation between the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs. There will be no exception to this general rule in Bismarck. Once or twice a year there should be a joint meeting of the three clubs to coordinate their programs so that there will be no duplication of effort.

The Bismarck Rotary has sponsored the boy welfare work and cooperation with the school authorities. There are many other matters of moment for the Kiwanis and Lions clubs to father.

A juvenile and adult band under the auspices of the Association of Commerce will need the aid and earnest cooperation of all civic bodies. There is a pressing need for organized girl welfare work for twelve months in the year and the city should at an early date begin preparation upon a plan for city parks.

The ideal feature of all these clubs is the fact that they function with the Association of Commerce. In many Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs it is an unwritten law that membership in the Association of Commerce is first qualification for fellowship in the other club.

In an age where there is a tendency to over organize, the importance of a strong virile Association of Commerce which takes in every citizen should not be under estimated. The other clubs serve as a force to promote civic welfare through an indirect influence, but the organization through which the actual work is done is most effective if it happens to be the Association of Commerce.

The Kiwanis club has a place to fill in the civic life of Bismarck. It has been most auspiciously launched. The Tribune knows it voices the sentiments of other organizations in wishing this new venture the greatest success in promoting the welfare of this city and in inspiring more citizens to engage in work of a public nature.

There is little or no difference between the spirit of Rotary and that of Kiwanis. The sole object of this organization can be well summed up as follows:

The ideal of SERVICE as the basis of all worthy enterprise.

High ethical standards in business and professions. The application of the ideal of service by every Kiwanian to his personal, business and community life.

The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service.

The recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations and the dignifying by each Kiwanian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society.

The advancement of understanding, good will and international peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the Kiwanis ideal of service.

THE SENTRY

While fishing, Rodger Dolan got a sore throat which developed into tonsillitis, then painful quinsy. By this time the camping party was 23 miles from even a village. But Dolan needed a doctor, so one of the Indian guides took him the 23 miles by canoe and portage.

"The place wasn't even a village," Dolan tells the story. "It was a community of about 15 houses, no stores. I inquired my way to the doctor's house. It was a little frame dwelling. The doctor's wife—in gingham wrapper, her hands gnarled and red from helping her husband fight for existence—came to the door. She informed me that the celebrated physician was out back, chopping wood, and to just step into his office."

"The office was a surprise."

"This office," Dolan continues, "looked like business. The linoleum had a faded inlaid-tiles design. In one corner was a white enameled bookcase affair with glass shelves, in which the doctor's shining tools were displayed. On a table were the latest medical magazines."

"The doctor showed up presently. He had 'washed up' and donned a white hospital jacket. He examined me thoroughly, painted my throat ulcers, then went into his dispensing laboratory whence, after half an hour with mortar and pestle, he emerged with a pint of throat gargle and another pint of tonic."

"His charge for the whole works, examination and medicine and all, was one dollar. I protested that I didn't want to shove him any nearer the poorhouse, but he said: 'A dollar is all I can charge the local settlers, and I wouldn't feel square to ask any more of an outsider, not even Rockefeller, or Ford!'"

"I baited him with questions and learned that most of his work in his far-flung community was charity. Also that he had to chop his own firewood and farm a big garden to make both ends meet."

"It was amazing, his intuitive medical genius. I found that he was up to the minute on medical science, treating several endocrine gland cases in the backwoods and checking two cancers by radium borrowed by registered mail from a far-off city."

"Sometimes I wish I had hung out my shingle in a larger and more remunerative community," the doctor confided almost emphatically as he gazed out the window. "But I can't leave these people. They need me. Some one has to be here, to care for them when they get ill."

There is a great lesson in this backwoods doctor's life of self-sacrifice for duty. Men like this old country doctor are the foundation stones of civilization.

Duty—the purpose for which we were put into this world—is very plain to all of us. And there are more than you would think, of people like the backwoods country doctor at the outskirts of civilization—the unsung truly great.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

AFTER COAL, LIGNITE

So rich is this country in natural resources that some which other great countries lack remain undeveloped and at present unneeded. Probably not one person in ten knows we have lignite, vast beds of which are found in many sections of the country, especially in the South. They indeed have lignite mines, where the fuel has been dug for centuries. Lignite, a low-grade fuel, has been mined in many other cases for home use.

Germany, though it has coal regions, has made greater use of lignite than we. It consumed some 100,000 tons last year.

The fuel division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers has turned its attention to plans for the use of lignite on a similar increased scale in our country. The price, it is estimated, would be about $5.00 a ton at the mines, and in special furnaces, where the fuel can be kept in thin layers, lignite burns efficiently. It has been tried but for domestic and industrial use and found satisfactory for both. Lignite has not been exploited to any great degree in this country, mainly because it meets the direct competition of good grades of coal, but as the supply of anthracite, which lignite resembles, and bituminous dwindles, there is certain to be great interest in this fuel. In many localities lignite occurs in vast beds only a short distance from the surface, or actually in outcroppings, so that mining is not expensive.

Perhaps by the time the necessity for the development of lignite arrives new sources of heat and power will have been developed; certainly in Europe scanty coal supplies in some regions have greatly advanced the use of "white coal." The hydro-electric power which exhausts no natural resources and has many other advantages. The possibility of man's drawing upon the lately discovered atomic energy may become a reality and solve the power problem forever. We will accept more possibilities. Business men do not yet count on atomic energy for their future fuel. In the present state of human progress it is comforting to think of the huge stores of fuel awaiting the needs of future generations. Since engineers have been devising plans for the use of lignite, we may count on having the means to handle it to advantage when the time comes.

Annually 137,000,000 tons consumed by Germany last year. Governmental Official Reports are available to prove that Germany consumed 137,000,000 tons of lignite during 1922 and conservative Government estimates place the total tonnage mined in Germany for 1923 as 200,000,000 tons of lignite.—New York Sun and Globe.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

"All out for Circus Town!" called out Mister Punch the conductor man.

Nancy and Nick got off the "Choo-Cho Express, hoping to find Ruby Joan there.

Circus Town was where the circus lived when it wasn't traveling around.

"Hello!" called a merry clown turning a somersault when he saw the Twins.

The Twins laughed.

But just as the clown got settled nicely on his feet again and they were going to ask him if he had seen anything of a rag doll, a nice little black and white pony came trotting up with a tiny monkey on his back.

"Want a ride?" asked the monkey, for in Circus Town all the animals could talk.

"Yes, indeed, thank you," said Nick.

"Then climb on, both of you," said the monkey jumping off.

So they climbed upon and the little pony trotted off like a race horse.

But he was easy to ride and the Twins hadn't the least bit of trouble sticking on.

"Oh, what's that?" cried Nancy, as a big round white thing appeared directly in front of them.

"We're going to bump right into it!" "Jump!" suddenly called a voice.

Both Twins gave a leap off the pony's back, but to their surprise they found themselves back on him again right away, riding along as though nothing had happened.

"We went through a paper-hoop!" laughed Nick. "We're regular circus-riders!"

After that they did so many things and had such a wonderful time that they forgot about Ruby Joan, and the train too until they heard the whistle.

"Oh, the Choo-Cho Express is going," cried Nick. "We'll have to hurry back to the station."

"I'll take you," offered an elephant and reaching down with his trunk he set them both on his back and started off at a run.

They were just in time.

SOMEONE'S DUE FOR A RELAPSE

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON.

I'm inclosing some letters to me from Leslie. They are almost too sacred for even the eyes of my best friend. Only that I must accuse myself for my sins, I would not send them to you.

"Wonder, Jack, just what a man does—what his thoughts are under these circumstances."

"What would you do, Jack? On, how foolish of me to ask you! Of course you do not know what you would do. No one does unless he is put in the same position."

What splendid commentary, Syd! I told Leslie to write that to me! God! It is the last stray that pushes me down into a purgatory of my own building!

You must see after this, Syd. I could never confess to her—never tell her of Paula.

How sweetly she allays my fears, my jealousy of her people, and throws herself completely upon my love and care! Did ever a married sweetheart write such dear love letters?

Syd, if women only knew what scoundrels we were they would shrink from us in contempt instead of allowing us to hold them in our arms.

I think I shall go mad if you do not come soon, Syd. To tell you the truth, I do not dare go near Paula unless you are with me.

The longer I live, the surer I become of the fact that we must pay not only for our sins but for our mistakes. I think I have said that to you before, Syd, but it looks to me as though Life had asked perfection of every mortal and punished or cast aside as totally unfit those who fall short of this by either mistaken notions or voluntary sinning.

Syd, I cannot endure it. I haven't even answered these wonderful letters from Leslie of which I have sent you a copy. I am carrying the originals around with me, and I read them over and over, alternately consumed first by the burning torture of her faith in me and then by the knowledge of how unworthy I am of that faith.

She is the dearest woman in all the world. Help me to keep her happy by getting me out of this mess.

Had another note from Paula today. She tells me that the doctor says she must go away immediately if she would cure incipient tuberculosis. Syd, I know what she wants. She wants to get away some place where she will not see either Leslie or me.

The poor girl hasn't a cent to bless herself with and she wants the money to go. Now I ask you how am I going to raise this money? I'm in a devil of a hole, from which I seem to be trying to pull myself out by my bootstraps.

Somehow I fear that it is not tuberculosis that ails Paula.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Mark Brendon, famous criminal investigator, is taking holiday on Dartmoor, where fishing is his pleasure. While visiting a trout stream in Foggittor Quarry, Mark holds conversation with a man clad conspicuously in Norfolk jacket, knickerbockers and a red waistcoat with brass buttons. The stranger's hair and huge mustaches are fiery red in color.

Later Brendon receives a letter from Jenny Pendenn asking him to investigate the disappearance of her husband. Mark goes to call at Jenny's home and learns that the man he met in the quarry is Robert Redmayne, uncle to Jenny, and that he is missing and suspected of murdering Michael Pendenn, who also was missing. Robert Redmayne and his two brothers are Jenny's three living relatives.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"The war altered everything and created a painful breach between my future husband and my Uncle Robert. The latter instantly volunteered and rejoined in the opportunity to seek adventure."

My husband had no mind for active warfare. He was delicately built and of a gentle temperament. Uncle Robert, however, made a personal thing of it.

"He represented the situation to his brothers, and Uncle Bendigo—who had just retired, but who, belonging to the Naval Reserve, now joined up and soon took charge of some mine sweepers—wrote very strongly as to what he thought was Michael's duty. From Italy Uncle Albert also declared his mind to the same purpose, and though I resented their attitude, the decision, of course, rested with Michael, not with me. He was only five-and-twenty then and he had no desire but to do his duty. There was nobody to advise him and, perceiving the danger of opposing my uncles' wishes, he yielded and volunteered."

"But he was refused. A doctor declared that a heart murmur made the necessary training quite impossible and I thanked God when I heard it. At my own wish Michael married me and I informed my uncles that he had done so. Relations were strained all round after that; but I did not care; and my husband only lived to please me. The Prince of Wales had been instrumental in starting a big moss depot for the preparation of surgical dressings; and both my husband and I joined this station."

"For nearly two years we stuck to this task, lodging here with Mrs. Gerry. During that time I fell in love with Dartmoor and begged my husband to build me a bungalow up here when the war was ended, if he could afford to do so. His pithard trade with Italy practically came to an end after the summer of 1914. But the company of Pendenn & Trearrow owned some good little steamers and these were soon very valuable. So Michael, who had got to care for Dartmoor as much as I did, presently took steps and succeeded in obtaining a long lease of a beautiful and sheltered spot near Foggittor quarries, a few miles from here."

"Meanwhile I had heard nothing from my uncles, though I had seen Uncle Robert's name in the paper among those who had won the D. S. O. Michael advised me to leave the question of my money until after the war, and so I did. We began our bungalow last year and came back to live with Mrs. Gerry until it should be completed."

"Six months ago I wrote to Uncle Albert in Italy and he told me that he should deliberate the proposition; but he still much resented my marriage. I wrote to Uncle Bendigo at Dartmouth also, who was now in his new home; but while not particularly angry with me, his reply spoke slightly of my dear husband."

"A week ago I was walking out of the post-office, when I should suddenly stop in front of me on a motor bicycle but Uncle Robert? I waited only to see him dismount and set his machine on a rest before the post-office. Then I approached him. He was lodging at Palignton, down on Torbay, for the summer months, and he hinted that he was engaged to be married."

"He had been to see an old war comrade at Two Bridges, two miles from here, and meant to lunch at the Duchy Hotel and then proceed to Plymouth; but I prevailed upon him at last to come and share our little meal, and I was able to tell him things about Michael which promised to change his unfriendly attitude. When my husband returned from the bungalow I brought them together again. Michael was on his defense instantly; but he never harbored a grievance very long and when he saw that Uncle Bob was not unfriendly and very interested to hear he had won the O. B. E. for his valuable services at the depot, Michael showed a ready inclination to forget and forgive the past."

"I think that was almost the happiest day of my life and, with my anxiety much modified, I was able to study Uncle Robert a little. He seemed unchanged, save that he talked louder and was more excitable than ever. The war had given him wide, new interests; he was a captain and intended, if he could, to stop in the army. He had escaped marvelously on many fields and seen much service. During the last few weeks before the armistice, he succeeded to gassing and was invalided; though, before that, he had also been out of action from shell shock for two months."

"He talked for hours about the war and what he had done to win his honors; and he noticed particularly a feature of his conversation. His memory failed him sometimes. Michael explained to me afterward that this defect was a serious thing and probably indicated some brain trouble, which might get worse. I begged Uncle Robert to stop with us for a few days instead of going to Plymouth. We walked out over the moor in the evening to see the bungalow and my uncle was very interested.

"He stopped on and liked to lend a hand with the building sometimes after the builders had gone. He and Michael often spent hours of these long evenings there together; and I would take out tea to them."

"Uncle Robert had told us about his engagement to a young woman, the sister of a comrade in the war. She was stopping at Palignton with her parents and he was now going to return to her. He made us promise to come to Palignton next August for the Torbay Regatta, and in secret I begged him to write to me."

"That night Uncle Robert and Michael went, after an early tea, to the bungalow, but I did not accompany them on this occasion. They ran round by road on Uncle Robert's motor bicycle, my husband sitting behind him, as he always did."

"Supper time came and neither of them appeared. I am speaking of last night now. I did not bother till midnight, but then I grew frightened. I went to a police station, saw Inspector Halfyard, and told him that my husband and uncle had not come back from Foggittor, and that I was anxious about them."

Mrs. Pendenn stopped and Brendon rose.

She shook his hand and a fleeting ghost of a smile, infinitely pathetic but unconscious, touched her face.

At the police station a car was waiting for Mark and in twenty minutes he had reached Foggittor. Inspector Halfyard rode as Brendon appeared, came forward, and shook hands.

"Have you searched the quarry?"

"Come out to the bungalow and I'll tell you what there is to tell. There's been a murder all right, but we're more likely to find the murderer than his victim."

They went out together and soon stood in the building.

"Now let's have the story from where you come in," said Brendon, and Inspector Halfyard told his tale.

"Somewhere about a quarter after midnight I was knocked up. Down I came and Constable Ford, on duty at the time, told me that Mrs. Pendenn was wishful to see me."

"Her husband and her uncle, Captain Redmayne, had gone to the bungalow, as they often did after working hours, to carry on a bit; but at midnight they hadn't come home, and she was put about for thoughts of the motor bike, I thought, there might have been a breakdown, or an accident, so I told Ford to knock up another chap and go down along the road. Which they did do—and Ford came back at half after three with ugly news that they'd seen nobody, but they'd found a great pool of blood inside the bungalow—as if somebody had been sticking a pig there. 'Twas daylight by then and I motored out instantly."

"I looked round very carefully for anything in the nature of a clue, but I couldn't see so much as a button. The quartermen don't work here because this place hasn't been open for more than a hundred years; but they go to Duke's quarry every day, and most of 'em have push bikes to take 'em to and from their job."

"At their cottages, on my way back to breakfast, I got some information of a very definite kind. Two men told the same tale, and they hadn't met before they told it. One was Jim Bassett, under foreman at Duke's quarry, and one was Ringrose, the water bailiff who lives in the end cottage. Bassett was smoking at his door at ten o'clock and Robert Redmayne came alone, pushing his motor bicycle till he reached the road. And behind the saddle he had a big sack fastened to the machine."

"Bassett wished him 'good night' and he returned the compliment

CUBS CATCHER GETS IN RACE FOR HIT HONOR

Bob O'Farrell is Pounding Along at a Merry Clip. Now in Fourth Place

HEILMAN HITS .428

Chicago, June 23.—Bob O'Farrell, catcher of the Chicago Cubs, has entered the mad scramble for batting honors in the National League, according to figures released today and which include last Wednesday's game. O'Farrell started his drive several weeks ago, and in his last seven games, he made thirteen hits, four of which were four baggers. His great stick work has been a big factor in the Cubs' recent victories. O'Farrell has moved from eleventh place among the players who have participated in thirty-five or more games, to a triple tie for fourth place with an average of .365, compared with a mark of .326 a week ago. Ed Roush of Cincinnati who added only one point to his mark of the previous week and Johnny Moken of the Phillies who suffered a slump are tied with the Chicago star.

Zack Wheat, the Brooklyn outfielder, has fallen off since the Dodgers' invasion of the West, but still maintains first place with a .365, compared with a .359 a week ago. Wheat is hitting .389, compared with .409 a week ago. Grimm's average is .385 and Frankie Frisch of the Giants is right on the heels of the Pirate first baseman, with an average of .382.

"Cy" Williams of Philadelphia continues to lead home run hitters with 29 circuit drives. His 14 total bases also remain in that department. George Grantham of the Cubs is tied with Sammy Bohne, of Cincinnati Reds for stolen base honors. Each has pilfered 13 sacks, the Chicago speedster, annexing six in the past week, while the Reds' phenom failed to steal.

Other leading batters: Bottomley, St. Louis, .360; Barnhart, Pittsburgh, .348; Williams, Philadelphia, .342; Southworth, Boston, .341; Young, New York, .340; Flack, St. Louis, .339; Fournier, Brooklyn, .338.

With the advent of warmer weather, the pitchers of the American League are showing better form. Harry Heilmann, of the Detroit Tigers is still on the throne with an average of .228, the only player in the majors playing in 35 or more games, who is hitting above the .400 class. Eddie Collins, captain of the White Sox is still the runner up with an average of .374 and Jameson of the Cleveland Indians is third with .369.

Collins has wrenched the sacrifice hitting honors away from Wambach of the Indians, by making 18 to Wambach's 16. Comiskey's star second sacker, also continues to blaze the paths and is showing the way to the home stretch with 24 thefts. Johnny Mostil, his team-mate who has stolen 14 bases, and is Collins' nearest rival.

Babe Ruth of the Yankees made only one circuit drive during the week which ran his string to fourteen, but the king of sluggers, has been doing some consistent hitting. With a total of 54 runs batted in, he is easily the best run getter, and his 123 total bases is far in front of his rivals.

Other leading batters: Burns, Boston, .362; Ruth, New York, .354; Haneey, Detroit, .354; S. Rice, Washington, .347; Ruel, Washington, .343; Miller, Philadelphia, .337; Cobb, Detroit, .335; J. Harris, Boston, .333; Myatt, Cleveland, .333; Severeid, St. Louis, .328.

Bunny Brief, of the Kansas City Blues, king pin slugger of the American association, who was leading the hitters who have participated in 35 or more games, has been dethroned and landed in fourth place. A slump of Brief also was reflected on G. Wright, Brannan, Blackburne, Roth and others and this falling off has pulled down their team batting average from .313 to .309, and has cost the Blues the leadership in the pennant race.

J. Smith, Toledo, runner up to Brief a week ago, has stepped out in front and Lamar, a teammate is his nearest rival. Smith's mark is .378 and Lamar's .366. Carl East is trailing in third place with .365 and Brief is next with .364.

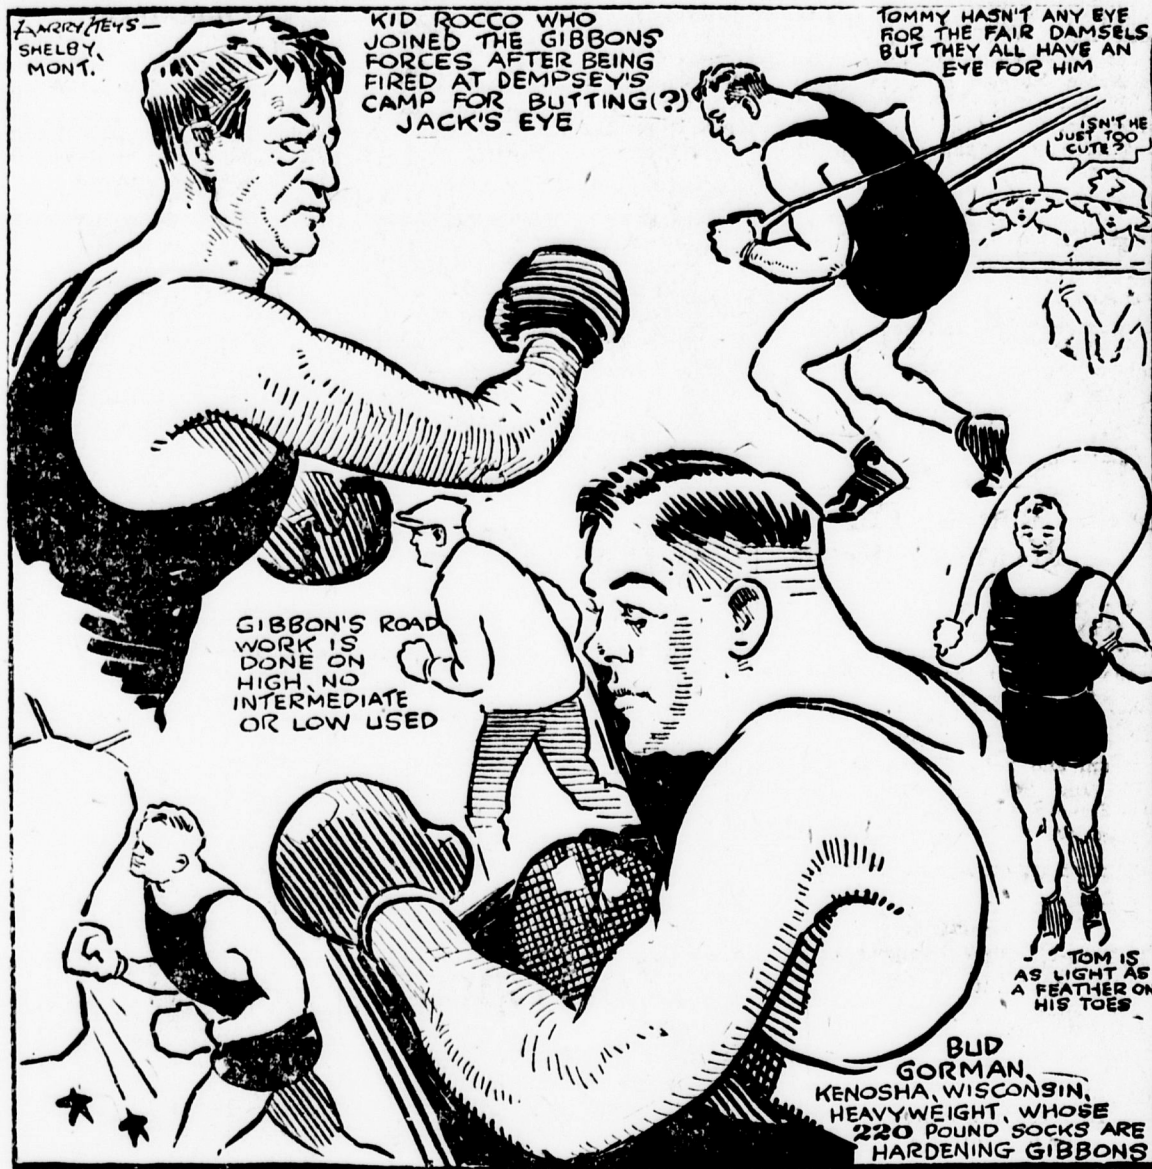

CANNOT STOP SUNDAY BALL IN NO. DAKOTA

The town of St. Thomas hasn't any right to prohibit Sunday baseball by ordinance, according to an opinion of the Attorney-General's office, by John Thorpe, first assistant Attorney General.

The town did seek to prevent baseball, and Mayor A. C. Grant asked the Attorney-General's office if the ordinance could be enforced.

After citing that the law permitting Sunday baseball between 1 and 6 p. m. was enacted by vote of the people, Mr. Thorpe cites authorities to the effect that an ordinance cannot supersede the state law, and says "it is our opinion that any city ordinance which seeks to prohibit the doing of something which by a state law is specifically permitted, cannot be enforced."

YANKEES WIN FIRST GAME ON ROAD TRIP

Chicago, June 23.—While four teams in the American and two in the National were idle yesterday, the New York Yankees celebrated their departure on their "away from home" trip by defeating the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 2.

The Yankees' "two Bobs"—Bob Shawkey and Bob Meusel—played the stellar part in the win—Shawkey pitching out of bat spots and Meusel by good fielding and hitting.

In the National the Giants climbed up another peg by drubbing Christy Mathewson's Boston Braves, Earl Smith, traded by the Giants to Boston recently, welded a wicked bat against his former teammates, getting three hits, two singles and a homer in four trips.

Felix, also of Boston, got a home run, but Scott kept the hit scattered and the Giants had the long end of a 9 to 5 score.

The Pittsburgh Pirates turned loose a broad-side and scuttled the Cincinnati Reds. The Cubs and Cardinals battled neck and neck until the eighth when Chicago put a pair of runs over the plate, winning 3 to 2.

WHEAT GOES DOWN TODAY

Price Drops Down on Chicago Board of Trade Today

Chicago, June 23.—Wheat took a decided downturn in price today although at first affected bullishly by crop reports that prospects of abundant crops in Europe had been destroyed by unfavorable weather. Word of rains in the domestic crop belt, however, dispelling fears of drought damage proved more than an offset in favor of the bear side of the market. Besides harvest weather in the Southwest continued to improve. Opening prices ranged from 34 cent decline to 3 cent advance, closing at $1.05 1/2 to $1.07 1/2, which was followed by moderate general gains and then by a sharp setback to well below yesterday's finish. Subsequently additional declines resulted from slowness of export demand. The close was unsettled, 11-8 to 13-4 cents net lower.

The War Department thought out for giving young men between the ages of 17 and 24 a summer outing and a little taste of army discipline at the same time. If you're an insurance salesman or a shoe clerk or somebody's private secretary and think you'd enjoy a month's sleeping out in the open with a little rifle practice thrown in, just tell the War Department about it. They'll look after all expenses, feed you, drill you, play a nice musical bugle for you to get up to in the morning and guarantee to make you a better citizen in the bargain.

The camps, started in 1921, are meeting with steadily increasing popularity according to Nathan H. Lord, civil aide to the secretary of war for the state of New York. Twelve thousand men, he states, were cared for the first year, 20,000 the second, while 30,000 will be accommodated during the present summer.

Next year he anticipates that 60,000 men will be received into the camps.

"It's not so much the men as their mothers," he explains. "Mothers used to think that military preparedness made for war. Little by little we are demonstrating to them that military preparedness makes for peace."

"It isn't true that because a young man learns to use a rifle he's going to rush out immediately and insist on using it on somebody."

"If a war does come, the training in military discipline which these young men have received will be invaluable aid to the country."

"But if we never had another war the training would still stand them in excellent stead. It teaches them respect for authority, teaches them to make prompt decisions, breaks down caste, promotes true democracy and strengthens physical and moral courage."

"The men have a good time, they are well drilled in athletics and sports, they have considerable time to themselves, their recreations are well looked after and they get many valuable lectures on subjects not strictly allied with the army routine."

Men who have taken the summer training, he states, have shown marked increase of efficiency in business while large commercial concerns are now giving their men the month off to take the training as a special reward of merit.

CUBS CATCHER GETS IN RACE FOR HIT HONOR

Bob O'Farrell Is Pounding Along at a Merry Clip, Now in Fourth Place

HEILMAN HITS 428

Chicago, June 23.—Bob O'Farrell, catcher of the Chicago Cubs, has entered the mad scramble for batting honors in the National League, according to figures released today and which include his Wednesday's game. O'Farrell has started his drive seven weeks ago, and in his last seven games, he made thirteen hits, four of which were four baggers. His great streak work has been a big factor in the Cubs' recent victories. O'Farrell has moved from eleventh place among the players who have participated in thirty-five or more games, to a triple tie for fourth place with an average of .365, compared with a mark of .336 a week ago. Ed Reish of Cincinnati who added only one point to his mark of the previous week and Johnny Moken of the Phillies who suffered a slump are tied with the Chicago star.

Zack Wheat, the Brooklyn outfielder, has fallen off since the Dodgers' invasion of the West, but still maintains first place with a four point margin over Charley Grimm, the Pittsburgh slugger. Wheat is hitting .389, compared with .369 a week ago. Grimm's average is .335 and Frankie Frisch of the Giants is right on the heels of the Pirate first baseman, with an average of .332.

"C" Williams of Philadelphia continues to lead the home run hitters with 20 current drives. His 145 total bases also remain in that department. George Grantham of the Cubs is tied with Sammy Bohne, of Cincinnati Reds, for stolen base honors. Bohne has pilfered 13 sacks, the Chicago speedster, annexing six in the past week, while the Reds' phenom failed to steal.

Other leading batters: Bottomley, St. Louis, .360; Barnhart, Pittsburgh, .348; Williams, Philadelphia, .344; Southworth, Boston, .341; Young, New York, .340; Ebbetts, St. Louis, .338; Fournier, St. Louis, .335. With the advent of warmer weather, the pitchers of the American League are showing better form. Harry Heilmann, of the Detroit Tigers is still on the throne with an average of .124, the only player in the majors playing in 35 or more games, who is hitting above the .300 class. Eddie Collins, captain of the White Sox is still the runner up with an average of .311 and Jimmie of the Cleveland Indians is third with .309.

Collins has wrenched the sacrifice hitting honor away from Wambach, of the Indians, by making 18 to Wambach's 16. Collins's star second-sacker, also continues to blaze the paths and is showing the way to the base stealers with 24 thefts. Johnny Mottl, his team-mate who has stolen 14 bases, and is Collins' nearest rival.

Babe Ruth of the Yankees made only one circuit drive during the week which ran his string to fourteen, but the king of sluggers, has been doing some consistent hitting. With a total of 54 runs scored, Babe is easily the best run getter, and his 133 total bases is far in front of his rivals.

Other leading batters: Burns, Boston, .362; Ruth, New York, .354; Hancy, Detroit, .354; S. Rice, Washington, .347; Ruel, Washington, .344; Miller, Philadelphia, .337; Cobb, Detroit, .335; J. Harris, Boston, .333; Myatt, Cleveland, .333; Severed, St. Louis, .326.

Bunny Brief, of the Kansas City Blues, king pin slugger of the American association, who was leading the hitters who have participated in 35 or more games, has been dethroned and landed in fourth place. The slump of Brief also was reflected on G. Wright, Brannan, Blackburne, Roth and others and this falling off has pulled down their team batting average from .313 to .309, and has cost the Blues the leadership in the pennant race.

J. Smith, Toledo, runner up to Brief a week ago, has stepped out in front and Lamar, a teammate is his nearest rival. Smith's mark is .378 and Lamar's .366. Carl East is trailing in third place with .365 and Brief is next with .364.

CANNOT STOP SUNDAY BALL, IN NO. DAKOTA

The town of St. Thomas hasn't any right to prohibit Sunday baseball by ordinance, according to an opinion of the Attorney-General's office, by John Thorpe, first assistant Attorney General.

The town did seek to prevent baseball, and Mayor A. C. Grant asked the Attorney-General's office if the ordinance could be enforced.

After citing that the law permitting Sunday baseball between 1 and 6 p. m. was enacted by vote of the people, Mr. Thorpe cites authorities to the effect that an ordinance cannot supersede the state law, and says "it is our opinion that any city ordinance which seeks to prohibit the doing of something which by a state law is specifically permitted, cannot be enforced."

YANKEES WIN FIRST GAME ON ROAD TRIP

Chicago, June 23.—While four teams in the American and two in the National were idle yesterday, the New York Yankees celebrated their departure on their "away from home" trip by defeating the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 2.

The Yankees' "two bobs"—Bob Shawkey and Bob Meusel—played the stellar part in the win—Shawkey pitching out of bat spots and Meusel by good fielding and hitting. In the National the Giants climbed up another peg by drubbing Christy Mathewson's Boston Braves, 8 to 1. Smith, traded by the Giants to Boston recently, pitched a wicked ball against his former teammates, getting three hits, two singles and a homer in four trips.

30,000 READY FOR GAME OF "WAR"

Uncle Sam Is Host To Army Of Summer Soldiers

The camps, started in 1921, are meeting with steadily increasing popularity according to Nathan H. Lord, civil aide to the secretary of war for the state of New York.

Twelve thousand men, he states, were cared for the first year, 20,000 the second, while 30,000 will be accommodated during the present summer.

Next year he anticipates that 40,000 men will be received into the camps.

"It's not so much the men as their mothers," he explains.

"Mothers used to think that military preparedness made for war. Little by little we are demonstrating to them that military preparedness makes for peace."

"It isn't true that because a young man learns to use a rifle he's going to rush out immediately and insist on using it on somebody."

"If a war does come the training in military discipline which these young men have received will be invaluable aid to the country."

"But if we never had another war the training would still stand them in excellent stead. It teaches them respect for authority, teaches them to make prompt decisions, breaks down caste, promotes true democracy and strengthens physical and moral courage."

"The men have a good time, they are well drilled in athletics and sports, they have considerable time to themselves, their recreations are well looked after and they get many valuable lectures on subjects not strictly allied with the army routine."

Men who have taken the summer training, he states, have shown marked increase of efficiency in business while large commercial concerns are now giving their men the month off to take the training as a special reward of merit.

GOV. DEVINE RETURNS HERE

Former Governor Joseph M. Devine has returned to the city after a series of several addresses in various parts of the state on diversified farming.

Mr. Devine addressed county gatherings entirely, his last one being at Steele yesterday at the old pioneer picnic. He said that ruins recently had made people everywhere enthusiastic over conditions.

New York, June 23.—The open season for surplus weight is on. Thirty thousand citizens who have been taking their daily dozen in the front parlor will soon be performing their stretching and bending exercises out of doors.

They will perform them at the behest of Uncle Sam at 27 different military camps provided for the purpose and between times they will learn to "fall in," shoulder arms, eat beans and assimilate various other matters of routine army life. It's all a part of the scheme which the War Department thought out for giving young men between the ages of 17 and 24 a summer outing and a little taste of army discipline at the same time.

If you're an insurance salesman or a shoe clerk or somebody's private secretary and think you'd enjoy a month's sleeping out in the open with a little rifle practice thrown in, just tell the War Department about it. They'll look after all expenses, feed you, drill you, play a nice musical bugle for you to get up to in the morning and guarantee to make you a better citizen in the bargain.

Three Kinds of Products Advertising Can Sell

First, the product that offers some new and better way of meeting human wants. For such a product advertising offers the cheapest, quickest means of finding those people who will appreciate the advantages the new product offers.

Second, the product with hidden values that escapes the consumer's untrained eye. For such a product advertising can educate the buyer until he becomes a discriminating purchaser.

Third, the product which—in lucid moments—its owner will admit is no better than others of its kind. For such a product advertising can create a personality that will make it stand out from competing products like the one lighted house in a row of dark ones.

Which kind of product is yours? Have you learned to use advertising to fit its needs?

on accessories to the motoring public. Postmaster H. T. Murphy will occupy a seat in the Red Bird and hold a stop watch, the test being made at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. It is not a gasoline mileage contest, because the test is made in the busy Saturday afternoon traffic of the city and could not properly be called a test, but is merely a guessing contest for the interest of all and the benefit of the winners.

Capt. Murphy, of the Murphy Insurance Co., who timed the car, announced he would give free an insurance policy on the car bought by the winner of first prize.

Willys' Saw Future
In reviewing the development of the Willys-Overland Company up to the building of the one millionth car which was completed on June 12, and in commemoration of which the week of June 18 to 23 has been set aside as Jubilee Week, acknowledgment of the genius of John North Willys, President of the organization, must be taken into account. Mr. Willys had the vision to see the future of the industry twenty years ago. He had absolute confidence in the ultimate destiny of the automobile, and steadfastly adhered to his faith. Initiative has always been characteristic of the man who now heads the activities of the company.

Even as a boy in Canandaigua, New York, where he was born, he was fond of little bus neas deals with his companions and one of his first ventures showed conclusively that he had more than average business ability with no small amount of ingenuity.

Being keenly observant he noticed one day that drivers were continually having trouble with their reins which were always falling down around the horses' feet. As a preventive he secured a dozen clamps for holding the reins. With the proceeds of the first dozen, he bought two dozen and quickly disposed of them all.

Enters Automobile Field
In 1889 Mr. Willys was looking one day out of the window of a Cleveland building when he noticed something on four wheels crawling along the street. No horse was attached to it, yet it looked exactly like a carriage. Then and there Mr. Willys said the machine had been "heavenly hallowed."

At that time the total output of cars was less than 400 for the whole country. Later Mr. Willys bought a Pierce Motorette which was fashioned like a carriage and powered with a French motor about the size of a hot water bottle. Soon afterwards Mr. Willys had a talk with Mr. Pierce in Buffalo and it was decided that Mr. Willys was to have one of the first automobiles that Mr. Pierce turned out, as the Pierce Company was then experimenting with them. Later Mr. Willys bought a demonstrating car for $900 and the first year he sold two cars. From then on he developed the automobile.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL

Shirley Mason, the popular William Fox star, comes to the Capitol theater in "The New Teacher," for a two-day run commencing Monday. No production in which this dainty star has been seen approaches in point of beauty and detail the new charming story selected for her by Mr. Fox. The picture is from Dorothy Yost's tale, "The Little Alien," and the scenario is also the work of the author.

In "The New Teacher" Miss Mason appears as a young society girl who tires of social life. She yearns to do something for her poorer fellow beings. When the family suffer a financial reverse she accepts a position as a teacher in one of the public schools located in the slums of New York. Her sweetheart finds her and in order to protect her becomes a policeman. After she has accomplished many praiseworthy acts, he induces her to resume her former status, and the picture ends by their being married.

An excellent cast, which includes Alan Forrest, Earl Metcalfe and Pat Moore, the child actor who is rapidly forging to the front ranks of stardom, support Miss Mason in her latest offering.

THE ELTINGE

Eating spaghetti in the approved manner of the Italians is difficult enough to make even an adult, unaccustomed to the task, shudder. But when a boy of the age and size of little Jackie Coogan attempts the feat —why, it can't be done.

Jackie tries it in his latest production, "Daddy," a First National picture produced by Sol Lesser, which will be seen at the Eltinge theater Monday and Tuesday, and he convulses you with his antics. In dishing the slippery edible out of the pot on the stove Jackie finds it impossible to make it stay on the plate, so he brings a pair of scissors into play.

Then, when he attempts to transfer the food to his empty stomach, he discovers that it cannot be done. His nimble brain, however, works out a plan of eating the spaghetti without becoming entangled in its folds—and the result is one of ex-cruciating humor.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coogan wrote the story of "Daddy," which is a perfect blend of humor, pathos and tragedy, with Jackie cast as the homeless, parentless waif, who wins the hearts of all.

Another feature at the Eltinge for Monday and Tuesday is one of the "Fighting Blood" stories.
